Prexy Lights Christmas Tree Tonight in Pre-Holiday Plans

• THE ANNUAL CHRISTMAS tree lighting ceremony will be held on Lisner Terrace tonight at 5:30 p.m. As scheduled, the ceremony will end at 6:00.

The tree will be presented to the University by the president of the Engineers' Council, then accepted by President Marvin, who will light it.

Dr. Lawrence Folkemer and Dr. Joseph Sizoo of the Department of Religion, will speak to the assembly.

Dr. Folkemer is to read the traditional Christmas story, and Dr. Sizoo will speak briefly on the subject, "What Christmas Means."

The Glee Club, directed by Dr. Robert Harmon, will open the ceremony with the processional, "Adeste Fideles." They will also sing several Christmas carols and will lead the annual community caroling.

The tree-lighting ceremony and presentation of the "Messiah" will be the last appearances of the University Traveling Troubadours before their departure for Air bases in the north, where they will entertain the troops over the Christmas holidays.

Before their return on January 3, the troop will have visited most of the bases in the Arctic zone, including Thule, which is only 827 miles from the North Pole. Dr. and Mrs. Harmon will accompany the singers on their trip.

New Drama Tryouts Set For Tonight

• TRYOUTS FOR Emlyn Williams' drama, "The Corn is Green," will be held tonight, tomorrow, and Thursday nights in Room 1 of the Hall of Government.

The third production of the University theater season will be under the direction of William Callahan, managing director of University dramatic activities.

Rehearsals for the "The Corn is Green," which will be presented on February 25, 26 and 27 in Lisner Auditorium, will begin with the opening of school after the holidays, but the cast will be selected before vacation begins. Callahan also has announced that there will be a break from rehearsals during exams so that no student's work will suffer from the rehearsal process.

All interested members of the various back-stage crews, properties, costumes, settings and lighting, are also invited to tryouts to sign up the various crews. For information call National 8-5200, ext. 472.

Law Center Fund Drive Fixes $4½ Million Goal

• DR. CLOYD H. MARVIN has announced the organization of the George Washington Law Center Fund which has been formed by alumni of the law school to conduct a nation-wide drive to raise $4,500,000 for establishment of a law center in Washington.

Newell W. Ellison has been appointed by the Law School alumni as national chairman for the campaign. Mr. Ellison, graduate of the University Law school in 1921, is a trustee of the University.

The site of the Law Center building will be on the University campus. It is the hope of the Law Center Fund that sufficient subscriptions will be on hand to start building operations by the end of 1955, the 90th anniversary of the Law School.

In addition to providing urgently needed space for the Law School's present student body of 1,000, the proposed Law center building will further provide facilities for a number of the Schools' current research and development projects.

Among these are the Patent, Trade-mark, and Copyright Foundation, the Institute of Criminal Science, and Administration, the Institute of Advanced Legal Education and the Washington Foreign Law Society.

Committees for the Law Center Fund are now being set up throughout the country. Members of the National Advisory Committee are: Homer S. Cummings, former Attorney General; Arthur S. Fleming, Director of Office of Defense Mobilization; J. W. Fulbright, U. S. Senator from Arkansas; J. Edgar Hoover, Director of Federal Bureau of Investigation; Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, and Robert C. Watson, Commissioner of Patents.

The first phase of the Fund's campaign program will be directed primarily toward the alumni of the Law School, then toward other interested persons.

WCB Holds Last Lunch

University delegates were Shirley Floyd, Barbara Bailey, JoAnn Schowalter and Carolyn Berk. Mrs. Ann Jewell, of the Office of Women's Activities, also attended.

The meeting at which the convention will be discussed is scheduled for tomorrow at 12:30 in Woodhull House.

Glee Club, Troubadours Join Air Force in Singing Messiah

• THE NOTES OF Handel's joyous cantata, the "Messiah," will ring forth from Lisner Auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30, as over 150 members of the University mixed chorus joins in their annual presentation.

Under the direction of Lt. Robert L. Landis of the U. S. Air Force Band, the chorus includes members of the University Glee Club, the University Traveling Troubadours, the Elderbrook Methodist Choir, and the Air Force's "Singing Sergeants." Orchestral accompaniment will be provided by the Air Force Band symphony orchestra.

Worthy Leaders Win Recognition

• THIRTY-TWO STUDENTS will represent the University in the 1953-1954 Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The students selected for this national recognition have participated in a wide field of campus activities; athletics, debate and publications.

Frat Quartets Sing Thurs. In Competition

• THE COMPETITIVE IFC Quartet Sing will be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium as planned.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the Order of the Lacy Garter to the girl who has performed the most valuable service to the University. Hal Mesirov, president of Gate and Key, will present the award.

As it is a benefit performance, the admission charge will be a toy, an article of clothing, a can of food or 25 cents. Other members of the honorary fraternity for outstanding Greeks on campus will also be present. The winning group will receive an inscribed cup commemorating the occasion and bearing the title and date of the event.

The order of appearance of the quartets are: SAE, DTD, PiKA, SX and AEPL. The judges, Mark Boucher, James Ewin, Lewis Sims and Louis Metcalf, members of the Interim Barber Shop Quartet Society, will be there as scheduled. The program is sponsored jointly by the Student Council and IFC.

One important change will be the master of ceremonies. Instead of the mysterious and unknown Paul Tennings, as reported last week, Paul Jennings will preside.

New Yells...

• THE CHEERLEADERS have suggested two new cheers for the basketball season:

- (1) Shoot 'em high
Get 'em in
Come on Colonials
Let's win!
- (2) Bunny hop:
Take it from the center
Dribble down the floor
Come on Colonials
Boost that score!

Selection for Who's Who follows a definite pattern each year. A student is first officially recommended from his college or university after which he is accepted by the Who's Who organization. Each year, approximately 600 colleges and universities throughout the nation participate in the recognition plan.

The students so selected will be listed in the official publication of the group, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Selection is based on scholarship, cooperation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship and service to the school and his promise of future usefulness.

University Selects

Selection here at the University was made this year, as in past years, by the Student Life Committee. The student members of the committee, consisting of a representative from the Student Council, HATCHET, Omicron Delta Kappa, Mortar Board, Inter-Fraternity and Panhellenic Councils, met and selected from the applications those students they thought deserving of the honor.

The student members of the committee then submitted all the applications, as well as those they had not approved, to the faculty members of the committee. The faculty members of the Student Life Committee are: Dr. Burnice Jarman, chairman, Mr. Max Farrow, Miss Virginia Kirkbride, Dr. Muriel McClanahan and Dr. James Coberly. After the faculty members made their selection, the approval applications were sent to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, headquarters for Who's Who.

The final selection of the students who would be members of Who's Who was made by that organization's selection body. Notification of this final approval was then sent to the University and each individual student.

The organization awards each member so selected a certificate of recognition, a listing in the official publication and use of the student placement bureau. No charge is made to the student for these services.

Gives Placement Service

The student placement service is designed to give assistance to any member in making employment contracts or supplying other recommendations.

Upon request, students are recommended for employment. Letters of recommendation are sent by the organization along with copies of the student's employment forms and are notified to follow-up recommendations when necessary. (At the time of selection, each student submits two biography blanks, the employment form and a survey sheet.)

The idea of creating one national basis of recognition for college students that would be democratic and devoid of dues, initiation fees or other cost to the student was conceived about 21 years ago. After two years of research, it was determined that such a standard recognition was needed.

Included in the list of members in Who's Who this year are: seven members of the Student Council, all the members of Mortar Board, presidents of the Inter-fraternity Council, Panhellenic, Omicron Delta Kappa, Cherry Tree co-eds, HATCHET editors and co-captain of the football team.

Hatchet Holiday

• HATCHET staffers (most of them) are normal human beings, and as such observe the coming Christmas holidays. What we're trying to say is there will be no HATCHET until Jan. 12. Merry Christmas and New Year!

Sigma Tau Initiates 19 Engineers

• LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON 19 junior and senior engineering students entered Lisner Auditorium studio B tightly clutching their lists of signatures and their technical papers. Some time later they reappeared as members of Sigma Tau.

In the interim these students were initiated into Xi chapter of Sigma Tau, a national engineering honor society. They were selected on the basis of high scholastic standing and have shown promise of good professional aptitude in their classes as attested by three faculty members.

Among the initiates this semester were a U. S. Army Major, an Air Force Lt. Colonel, a student council member, and the son of the head of the physics department here.

New Initiates

The names of the new initiates are as follows:

H. J. Antosz, J. P. Barranger, L. Berton, C. K. Brown, G. A. Davis, E. E. Dix, E. R. Enholm, A. R. Gordon, L. H. King, H. C. Parker, E. Prada, A. W. Richmond, D. C. Rhoffs, S. Serividio, G. Shapiro, R. O. Stone, R. A. Tobin, R. H. van Sickle, S. J. Vest.

Following the initiation, a banquet and dance was held at Brook Farms Restaurant. During the intermission at the dance, entertainment was provided by the pledge class.

Sigma Tau, founded in 1904 at the University of Nebraska, was admitted to the Association of College Honor Societies in 1930, the first honor society admitted after the formation of the Association. Other members of the Association include Tau Beta Pi, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, the Order of the Coif, and Alpha Omega Alpha.

Coming Events

Tuesday, December 15—The annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony, Lisner Terrace at 5:30 p.m.

Wednesday, December 16—Engineers' Council meeting at the Davis-Hodgkins House at 8:15 p.m.

Wednesday, January 6—AIEE-IRE, ASME and ASCE Meetings, 8:15 p.m.

At the AIEE-IRE meeting, Dr. Bennett of Naval Ordnance Lab will present a paper on "Professional Development of the Graduate Engineer." Tentative plans call for a joint AIEE-IRE-ASME meeting at this time. The meeting is scheduled for Monroe 204.

• THIS MONTH WILL end with a bang with three science meetings ranging in subject from a tour of the Smithsonian Institution's Medicine and Public Health division to a discussion of mathematics applied to human heredity. Both students and faculty have been invited to these meetings.

Tomorrow the District's branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association will meet at the Smithsonian Arts and Industries Building near 10th and Independence Ave., S. W. Members should use the northwest door adjacent to the Smithsonian parking lot. There will be a short business meeting, a talk by George Griffenhagen, associate curator of the Division of Medicine and Public Health, and a tour through that division.

Wives of members are also invited.

Friday Dr. George Gamow, professor of theoretical physics at the University, will discuss how mathematics is used to study the structure of chromosomes, the tiny bodies which are a part of living cells and which carry heredity traits.

Dr. Gamow will speak at the Cosmo Club, 2121 Mass Ave., N. W. at 8:15 p.m.

Finally, the University will play host to the Kappa Psi Professional Fraternity national convention December 28-30. The convention, consisting of two hundred and fifty delegates from sixty-eight United States collegiate and graduate chapters, will be held at the Sheraton Park Hotel, according to Dean Charles W. Bliven, head of the University's pharmacy school.

The program will feature speeches by leaders in pharmacy, such as F. Royce Franzoni, president of the American Pharmaceutical Association, and tours of the city, a dinner dance, and activities for the delegates' wives.

THE MEMBERS OF Iota Sigma Pi — undergraduate women chemistry students and chemistry alumnae—held their annual meeting in Corcoran Hall's quantitative chemistry laboratory last Friday night.

To belong to Iota Sigma Pi a woman chemistry student must have had at least sixteen credit hours in that subject.

DR. ZOLTAN BAY, research professor of physics at the University, and his wife became American citizens two weeks ago.

Because he is interested in American history and has therefore read about it on his own, Dr. Bay considered the United States Constitution test, which he had to pass before becoming a citizen, very easy.

Dr. Bay received his citizenship papers in the Circuit Court of Rockville, Md.

Dr. Bay came to this country from Hungary in September, 1948. When asked about living conditions in this country compared to those in Hungary, he replied, "Born citizens of the United States do not realize how lucky they are."

Goldstein Wins Foul Shot Crown

• BOB GOLDSTEIN bucketed 57 of 60 foul shots to cop the individual honors in the intramural foul shooting tournament. Parry was second with 55 of 60.

Phi Alpha was the team winner with 233 points. Welling Hall was second with 211 and Delta Tau Delta third with 208 in team competition.

Also taking part were Pi Kappa, Alpha Sigma Pi, Sigma Chi and ROTC.

Students from Many Countries Attend Tea

• THE FULL CIRCLE of the color spectrum met the eye Friday afternoon at the International Students Society Tea in Lisner Lounge.

Flags of many nations lined portions of two walls, adding color to the already glittering costumes worn by a number of the guests, giving the diversity of tongues a truly international atmosphere.

This year, 58 countries are represented by 167 foreign students at the University who are encouraged to gather at the teas given regularly by Professor Diebert, adviser to Foreign students, and the Faculty Women's Club. Friday's tea was a special Christmas affair, honoring the University's foreign students and was well attended by both faculty and students. Professors of the Language Department and their wives, some of whom served as hostesses headed by Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, wife of Professor Doyle, were invited. Dr. and Mrs. Marvin, Miss Kirkbride, Director of Women's Activities, and Professor Diebert received the guests.

Dances of Russia, Poland, Sweden and various Scandinavian countries were presented by the Dance Production Groups in full costume and was followed by the appearance of Rod Davidson as an accordion playing Santa Claus. He distributed pamphlets of Christmas carols and led the guests in singing.

Among the specially invited guests were Myrna Loy (Mrs. Howland Sargeant), formerly of UNESCO; Lt. Col. Fernando Munizaga and Col. Norge Nagarette, Military attaches at the Chilean Embassy.

Speech Frat Elects Pettit

• DR. CALVIN PETTIT of the University's speech department, was named vice-president and president-elect of Sigma Alpha Eta, professional speech and hearing fraternity, at their convention held recently in New York.

Dr. Pettit is director of the Speech Correction Clinic, which he established upon his arrival in 1946. Although he opened his clinic with only 12 people, during the seven years of its existence the number has multiplied so that there are now 80 persons enrolled.

In the summer of 1952, Dr. Pettit received his PhD from the University of Wisconsin and he has been asked to return to head the speech correction department during the summer session 1954.

At Dr. Pettit's suggestion, the Upsilon chapter of SAE was established here in 1950.

Students Plan Xmas Fete At U.N. Club

by Barbara Stuart

• MOST EAGER UNIVERSITY students will be winging their way home or will be esconced in the laps of their families come December 22, but there are a few industrious scholars who are too far from the lands of their forefathers to travel home. These are the foreign students of the nation's capital.

So, some are planning to get into the spirit of the holidays by gathering with some native Washingtonians at the United Nations Student Organization on the first Tuesday of vacation.

This club's main point of interest is that it was founded last semester by a group of University students. Their prime object was to found an inter-collegiate group from the universities around Washington; where American and foreign students from all over the city could get to know each other a little better.

Starting from scratch in the spring, the group was quite successful and now boasts members from Georgetown, American, Catholic, George Washington and Maryland universities.

Meeting about twice a month, they have sponsored programs honoring Pakistan, Greece, Israel, South America and even the United States—at a Thanksgiving party.

The embassies have cooperated by providing speakers and entertainment, and the programs have usually been followed by dancing—sometimes native folk-dances, but more often the good old American ballroom variety.

The group also honored Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when she was in the city this fall as guest of honor at an American Veterans Committee function.

The Christmas get-together will be held at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 22, at 1751 New Hampshire Ave., N. W., and will feature the decorating of a Christmas tree, breaking of a Mexican pinata, Christmas carols, dancing.

The Club invites all students, who will be spending the holidays in D. C. to join them for the international merriment.

Ford Foundation Offers Scholarships, Fellowships

• THE FORD FOUNDATION today announced that it is offering scholarships and fellowships to young Americans who wish to begin or continue studies on the Soviet or East European areas during the academic year 1954-55.

This program, which the Ford Foundation administers with the advice of the Board on Overseas Training and Research, is intended to help meet the urgent need for larger numbers of American men and women with deeper knowledge of the cultures, current problems, institutions, and history of peoples and governments of these critical areas.

Awards will be made only to citizens of the United States and aliens permanently residing in the United States who intend to become citizens. The Foundation expects to make awards of three types: graduate area training scholarships; pre-doctoral area research-training fellowships, and post-doctoral area research-training fellowships.

Graduate area training scholarships are offered to graduate students, combining their advanced training in a profession, field, or discipline with integrated study of the Soviet or Eastern European area. They are available for the first, second, or third year of study in such programs, to persons not over 30.

Area research-training fellowships are available at the advanced pre-doctoral or early post-doctoral level. They are intended primarily to help the student complete his combined training in such programs by offering him an opportunity to develop his research skills. Scholars whose graduate training in their profession or discipline is already finished, and who wish to use the fellowship awards only for integrated study of the Soviet or East European area, are also invited to apply. For pre-doctoral candidates the age limit is 35; for post-doctoral candidates, 40.

Applications should be submitted by February 15, 1954, in order to be considered. Awards will be announced by May 15.

Application forms and further information about the program may be obtained from The Ford Foundation (Overseas Training and Research) 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Editorial:

Hatchet Saves N. Y.?

• THE PHOTOENGRAVERS' STRIKE in New York ended just as the HATCHET was preparing to succor the stricken city with its special sixteen-pager. The editors, at their all-night discussion in their offices on the Avenue, faced two issues.

The first one was: should they attempt to mediate between the enraged photoengravers and the adamant publishers, as they had been repeatedly urged to do by high officials—"Only you can do it," muttered Mayor Impellitteri in the smoke-filled room—or should they disregard all pleas and callously flood the crippled metropolis with a million HATCHETS?

This would deal the New York newspapers with a double blow: the continued strike would deplete their bank accounts, and the high literary standard of the HATCHET would cause the New Yorkers to see in a true light the inferiority of their own newspapers. The TIMES would be destroyed, not to mention the DAILY WORKER.

The other issue faced the HATCHET's business manager. John Watson Thorne the Third's moral values were warring with his desire to make money for his paper. The advertisers were ready to hand over ad after ad, at ridiculously high prices. Not a minute went by but Bethlehem Steel would be on the phone, begging Thorne to accept its ads.

Pressed on all sides by these material offers, John Watson stood firm. With a little sneer, "No," John Watson said to Bethlehem Steel, "I am holier than thou." The ads were not accepted. The HERALD TRIBUNE, the only New York paper not seriously affected by the strike, followed the HATCHET's stand and refused the ads.

Now the strike is over. New Yorkers are again filling out the puzzles in the TIMES. Walter Winchell, who had begged the editors to be allowed to write Foggy Bottom for free, is back in his usual corner.

And the HATCHET, proud of work well-done, and of moral issues bravely met, is going to the presses again, with its own brand of the news, which no one can imitate.

Christmas Greeting—

• THE ENTIRE HATCHET staff would like to extend season's greetings to the student body and faculty.

Kansas Offers Radio Course for Majors

• A MAJOR COURSE of study in radio is now being offered at the University of Kansas, according to a recent announcement by Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy. Students majoring in the field, enroll in the William Allen White School of Journalism and Public Information and will earn the degree of bachelor of science in journalism.

Peace Prize For Essay On World Amity

• THE ALEXANDER WILBOURNE Weddell Peace Prize this year will award $350 to the degree candidate who submits the best essay on a subject related to the promotion of peace among the nations of the world.

The competition is open to all students registered for a degree in the University.

Essays entered in the competition should be no less than 3,000 words and should be accompanied by a bibliography. Entries are to be submitted to Professor James Murdock at the Law School. The deadline will be announced at a later date.

Specific topics dealing with any political, economic, legal, or philosophical phase of orderly world community adjustment should be selected by the contestants.

The training in radio consists of courses in both the School of Journalism and Public Information and the department of speech and drama.

The new campus wired-wireless station, KDGU, will operate as the laboratory for most of the radio courses, much as the University Daily Kansan has been used as laboratory for years in the news-editorial and advertising-business sequences. Beginning students in radio will from the outset have an opportunity to prepare material for broadcast and to go on the air.

This station, which is now heard four hours a day in student residence halls, is set up in the portion of the new Journalism building set aside for radio studios and offices.

The radio sequence raises to four the number offered by the William Allen White school. The others are news-editorial, advertising-business, and home economics-journalism. Credit will be given for performance of executive duties on station KDGU.

• ARE YOU mentally stunted? As a child were your intellectual cravings cruelly ignored by hulking, snarling parents? Does your underslung little jaw drop in amazement at the guttural mutterings of "The Brute" as he lumbers from blackboard to blackboard? Why bless your black little hearts, of course it does! As a child you were obviously denied the use of all 75 volumes of the new Grolier Encyclopedia, bound in handsome human skin. Unfortunately, all is lost for you. You'd better learn to work with your hands. But let's see how everything could have been changed if you weren't the unfortunate clods that you are. We shall look into the lives of a typical American Grolier family—the Pithecanthropuses. Gather here at my feet, children, and see that my cup is never empty.

Scene 1—Just a plain, average American home in early evening. It stands serenely on the crest of a sheer black cliff. The moon is seen through the battlements. The turrets are dark but the downstairs chamber is lighted. The waters of the moat are still. All that can be heard are the dogs straining at their chains and an occasional clasp of thunder. (Scene fades into a closeup of the living room.) Mr. Pithecanthropus is alone. He is a typical lovable, bumbling American father type. One glance into his clear blue eyes tells us he is a man of excellent character. He is tall, rather square of shoulder and head. His honest, calloused hands hang serenely at his knees. A stitched scar, barely perceptible in the evening light, runs from the corner of his mouth to his eye. Small bolts protrude from his temples. Obviously the intelligent type, he is tampering with his latest household invention—a complex maze of wires, levers and dials.

At one side we see Maureen O'Hara strapped to an operating table. Unconscious, she wears a white negligee. It is slitted to the thigh. A wired metal band tightly encircles her head. The wires lead to another table on the opposite side on which there stretches a fine looking, clean cut young African ape. Flipping a switch Mr. Pithecanthropus leaves his work and repairs to his favorite Bishop's chair, where he falls into deep thought. With a muttered oath he climbs out and shouts: "Clodsworth, how many times have I told you not to leave that damned thought on your chair?" (Enter Clodsworth, Mr. Pithecanthropus' son. He is an intelligent looking boy of 19. He swings in and nimbly drops from the last vine. The knuckles of one of his hairy little hands lightly brush the floor as he walks. With his other hand he eats a banana.

CLODSWORTH: Ugh! Grrrr! MR. P.: Being sorry isn't enough. Don't let it happen again young m...uh...well just don't let it happen again!

CLODSWORTH: Pop, what air I gonna be when I grow up? (Editor's Note: Look sharp now, this is where Grolier comes in.)

MR. P. (aside): Chuckle! This is where Grolier comes in. (He reaches up to a long shelf of books. The Grolier set rests resplendently beside "The Complete Works of the Marquis de Sade." He takes down one of the books.)

MR. P.: Here son, look for yourself. (With a mischievous chuckle he hurls the book at the boy who catches it in the pit of his stomach and falls senseless. With a hearty laugh he playfully begins to cane Old Shep, the faithful family pet who lies chained to the wall. Although nearly blind, Old Shep still enjoys a good frolic. He snarls appreciatively. Meanwhile, young Clodsworth has recovered and is studiously thumbing through the Grolier volume, angrily ripping out the pages without pictures. Suddenly his beady little eyes blaze feverishly as he cries out:

CLODSWORTH: I've got it, Pop. I want to be an undertaker. Short hours, good pay, easy work, (See CLODSWORTH, Page 10)

Carolina's Liberals Kick; Claim Campus Colorless

by Joan Drew

• ONE AFTER ANOTHER, the reports roll out from research labs and libes. Words, words—and more words. Ever since the truce in Korea, the older generation has been knocking itself out observing, inspecting, interviewing and issuing statements about the young American of today.

Time magazine calls us the "Silent Ones." Newsweek thinks we're dull and conservative. A Yale professor says we are moderate drinkers. The New York Times claims we are "eerily disinterested" in everything.

But you kids are really "unkidable and unbeatable," says Newsweek patronizingly. The others concur with diplomatic pats on the head.

Okay, we're dull. (But nice.)

N. C. Protest

The University of North Carolina's Daily Tar Heel admits it with an emphatic protest:

"There is an academic pallor around here which pervades everything. Nothing seems to pulsate with the vitality we always associated with education. We swim in a dead sea. We eat stale bread."

"Every word from the north tells us of experimentation in education; from the west we hear of expansion; from the south we hear of revolution; but here, we hear nothing except 'Move over or the BA school.'"

"Are we sitting here, a calm eye of an academic storm raging elsewhere? Probable so. But it is the calmness not of serenity, but of absolute sterility. It is as if our tubes were tied off."

"If we consider the spectrum of thought to proceed (from left to right) from red to blue, we must admit, sadly, that there is nothing on this campus to the left of yellow. The late Bob Taft's political ideas set the campus pace, with the average half way between Sen. McCarthy and Bertie McCormick. In fact, there's not a self-respecting liberal left, and those who make the pretense (and few bother even to pretend) clear their throats and say, 'I know you'll think me a Communist for saying this,' and then give birth to a mouse."

"We wretch." (sic.)

"Our cup runneth over with tepid tea; our lemon slice is molded."

You've got something there, Tar Heels! But you're not the only ones in a stupor—academic or otherwise. Here's what college education is doing for some students at the University of Oregon. These are some of the errors that turned up in a general information test there:

Daffinitions

"Fjord—a Swedish automobile; Iran—Bible of the Mohammedans; Nicotine—the man who discovered cigarettes; Scotland Yard—two feet, ten inches; Concubine—when several businesses combine."

The University of Nebraska's Nebraskan refuses to admit we're dull or disinterested. We merely "view life with an outward calm which the older generation finds distressing," they say.

"Let's suggest to the worriers, the namers, the analyzers that the explanation is so simple they've missed it. Let's suggest that we have replaced the blatant, outward individuality of their generations with individuality of mind."

"We may be 'silent.' It's just because we're thinking instead of talking. If you must have a name for us, why not 'The Thoughtful Generation'?"

Public opinion is against you, Nebraska.

Although we have no statistics to back us up on this, we notice that the general tenor of the 60 or 70-odd college papers that come in each week from all over the United States, is one of complete lack of interest in anything that used to be considered important; you know—politics, religion, and current controversies...

The most pressing problems expressed in letters to the editor and editorials—seem to be concerned with nothing more than parking regulations and freshman beanies.

At Least They're Different

The only foreign newspaper we receive devotes two full pages to print letters to the editor. These contain radical and conservative opinions on everything from the Rosenbergs to the Queen of England. The rest of the paper is one great big mass of editorials. A few news items are thrown in to fill space.

If this Australian paper is indicative of the spirit of foreign students, then what is the matter with us? In Bolivia a few years ago students brought the new president into office by stringing the old one up on a lamp post (example of student interest in national affairs).

If we are living in a state of dull apathy, WHY? On Other Campuses will gather up some opinions next week.

• DURING THE PAST few months we have concentrated in this column merely to expose those individuals and groups, who probably in all good faith, are threatening the Democratic heritage which we have received from wiser cultures and long experience.

May Be Dangerous

Their zeal in combatting the diseased germs of Communism may end up like the early surgical experiences where the Doctor stated: "The operation was a success but the patient died." Our history has been a continual conflict between liberty and order.

Today is no exception. First, we must accept the established fundamental FACTS. Does Democracy have a right to defend itself against totalitarianism? The answer is an obvious and emphatic yes! But where many people make their mistake is in the semantics of such words as Communism, Democracy, and Fascism, etc. Communism, socialism and Fascism are all examples of economic system and cannot be compared with such political systems as Democracy and totalitarianism.

An economic system in itself, whether it is disagreeable and repulsive to the majority, constitutes no threats to the civil liberties of the individual. It is only when it becomes a dictatorship or any other type of minority rule that we must place every resource into the battle and fight as savagely as our enemies.

Danger From Without

Contrary to the opinion of many, I believe our greatest danger stems from without, not from within, our own nation. The number of native sympathizers of anti-Democratic systems is negligible.

A far greater evil are the highly trained foreign agents and imperialistic designs of the USSR. Toward these enemies our energies should be concentrated; not toward the minorities which refuse to conform. The strength of Democracy is inherent in faith, in trust, and in the health which only a secure people can obtain.

If we make mistakes, we shall profit by them. As guardians of liberty we must scale the heights of the highest lighthouses of truth and forever remain, watchful of those who, in the name of patriotism and defense, smash the ship of Democracy on rocky, blackened shores.

Russia Not Trade Rival

• WHILE NOTING A staggering increase in U.S.S.R. agricultural and industrial production since 1929, Dr. James Coogan told the International Relations Club, at their last meeting, that there is no reason to fear Russia as an economic rival for general markets in the near future. Dr. Coogan, assistant professor of economics at the University, received his Ph.D. in Soviet Economy at Harvard.

In a lively discussion following Dr. Coogan's address, heard by approximately thirty students, his opinion was brought out that the Soviet was concerned at present with raising the standard of living of its own people rather than seeking to compete for general markets.

In the field of industry, which shows the abnormally high increase of production per annum of six per cent, Dr. Coogan claimed that the limitations of "efficiency, bureaucracy," and transportation would slow this down, eventually but not in the next few years.

From Stalin's position in regard to agriculture of 1951, we see a complete reversal in the full speech of Malenkov, says Dr. Coogan. Stalin felt that the aspect of private enterprise in agriculture, as shown by the peasants seeking markets for produce, must be strictly limited in favor of a system closer to bartering. Abandoning this principle, the new government offers higher prices for agricultural produce.

Party of the week was unquestionably the Sigma Chi's Sweetheart Dance at the National Airport's Cloud Room on Saturday night. I don't want to keep you citizens in suspense about the new Sweetheart: KKG Louise McDavitt handed over the crown, cup, pin, flowers and other accoutrements of the office to Kit Cullen, pretty blond wife of Mike. The Queen is dead. Long live the Queen!

Compacts and Hymns

It was a beautiful party, as it always has been. Sigs and their dolls strolled thru an archway in couples; after shaking hands briskly with her date under said archway, each girl received a crested compact. The juneessee doree of G Street society frolicked to the music of Joe Macy and his 18 Parlor Pinks, and when the band gave up, sang the pious hymns that are so popular with today's party-going youth. Saw Carlene Parker with Bob McGrath, newly-elected prexy of SX; also ADPI Lynn Staver and Ed Nera; KKG Bev Alexander cavorting with Lou Donofrio, Carol Picton with Neill Carroll, XO Phyl Ames with Curly Cudell. KKG Carol Peters skated hastily away as I approached, wearing my celebrity-hunting expression. All in all, a party of brilliance and distinction. Salve, Sigs, and Kit!

to the pub, we have the Phi Sigma Kappas playing hosts to representatives from Kappa Delta, Pi Phi and Delta Gamma in the contest for the title of Beeriest Sorority of the month. Ruth Berryman, Pi Phi, Claire Picard, DG, and Elaine Zervos, KD, all made the finals, but Zervos showed the greatest perseverance, bringing victory to KD. A drinking mug is to be decorated commemorating the occasion.

Last Sunday the sixth, the partying Phi Sigs exchanged with ADPI, and lifted the sisters' somewhat drooping spirits (the girls had held their pledge formal the evening before) with a loathsome punch created by Eds Ferrero and Turco, and Prexy Tom Brown. This Sunday the Phi Sigs entertain the Kappas. Great excitement was in the air when the sisters discovered Bobbie Worley's beautiful diamond. Bobbie is engaged to Tom Potter of Delta Tau Delta, which doesn't come as too much of a surprise to their friends.

Acacia's Honor Widow

Here's something to enliven those first dismal days back in school after the jolly season ends, and all egg-nogs have been drunk, and you're glad to see the last of them anyway: Acacia, following a precedent set last year, will throw their annual all-university Widow's Party. The great day will be Saturday, January 9th. If it sounds intriguing and different, the thing to do is to come in droves. Last year the affair was in honor of the unknown soldier's widow as all of you party-people will recall. This year the guest of honor will be the "Merry Widow," again a campus celebrity; and again said beauty's identity will remain a closely-guarded secret until midnight. The Acacians promise all sorts of fun and games, saying "This year it will be better than ever!"

The DG's lovely pledge formal was held this Saturday, at Louise Clark's home, Belmont, near Leesburg, Virginia. Barbara Johnson was there with Dick Baty, SAE pledge; Grace Thada with SN Bob Foldenhauer; Nan McKinney, illustrious HATCHET editor, with Georg Maisel, who thumped the piano in Sing Out Sweet Land... The pledges were presented at 10, and chicken dinner was served later... And there are times I wish I'd pledged DG instead of ZUK.

AGU Pledge

LE SPORT: The Teke's pledge-active game was won by the pledges but everyone won at the party to celebrate Ed Carpenter's divorce from the army. The actives won the Sigma Nu's pledge-active game, so the pledges had to buy the beer, which the actives also won. It begins to sound complex. I think I should stick to higher-type parties. Hyman Levy

Last year a survey of leading colleges throughout the country showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette.

This year another far more extensive and comprehensive survey—supervised by college professors and based on more than 31,000 actual student interviews—shows that Luckies lead again over all other brands, regular or king size...and by a wide margin! The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better.

Smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste, and the fact of the matter is Luckies taste better—first, because L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. And second, Luckies are made better to taste better. So, Be Happy—Go Lucky!

French Club Gives Holiday Fete Tomorrow

• CHRISTMAS PARTIES and pre-holiday frolics are popping out all over campus this week, and not the least of these is the French Club's annual fete.

To be held tomorrow night at 8:30 in Woodhull House, the party is open to all students who have even a smattering of French, Italian or Spanish.

This one event is usually jointly sponsored by the Romance language clubs each year. The Spanish Club is non-existent this semester but all former or would-be members are asked to join their Latin comrades in the merriment. The embryonic Italian Club is also entering the fun—their first chance at the joint celebration since they formed only last semester.

Peter Kniskern, president of the French Club said that the entertainment will be Latin in character, with dancing playing the major part. Then there will be Christmas carols—sung in French, of course—and refreshments.

It is predicted that decorations and the yuletide spirit will lend a gay, holiday air, but most of the excess joy will probably be due to the fact that eighteen more days of fun and frolic are within seeing distance.

At any rate, Les Francais promises a festive evening to all who join them tomorrow night.

Clodsworth

and it's a job that'll keep me out of the hole.

MR. P. (approvingly): I dig you, son. That sounds like an earthly decision. (Aside) I can thank my lucky stars that I read over that section on vocational guidance in Grolier. (He thanks his lucky stars.) Enter Mrs. Pithecanthropus, a sweet, lovable woman with large sinewy arms and a slack jaw. She is wearing a "Central YMCA" sweatshirt and carries a 200-pound sledge. Her left fist is mailed. It is Sunday and she is unshaven.

MRS. P.: We're having Parson Brown for dinner, chums, so you'd better get cleaned up.

She goes to the Grolier shelf and takes down the volume entitled "How To Cook Rare Dishes." She looks under "P." Suddenly the doorbell rings. Clodsworth lopes offstage and returns with his teacher, Miss Murdstone, a small, hunched, green-fanged woman of some 90-odd years. She is munching on the flesh of a freshly killed rabbit. In her left hand she carries a spiked maul.

MRS. P.: Why Miss Murdstone, how nice of you to drop by. You must stay for dinner. (A faint groan is heard offstage.) It's nearly ready.

Miss Murdstone holsters her maul and drops the remains of the rabbit into a game bag which hangs at her side.

MISS MURDSTONE: I hunt, you know. I think every girl should have a hobby. (She spies the Grolier set.) Ah! No wonder young Clodsworth has been improving so in his work. Why last semester it seemed that I was always strapping him to the rack. But not anymore. A few hours in the Iron Maiden and he's a new b... uh, that is, he's greatly improved.

Discontented Dog

A cauldron bubbles invitingly offstage, and they all exit. Mrs. Pithecanthropus reappears with a plate of bones for Old Shep, who has regained consciousness and cowers in his corner. Old Shep spies a starched white collar in his food and growls (aside):

OLD SHEP: Damn it, I always get the neck.

Miss Murdstone and the Pithecanthropuses reappear and the usual pleasantries are exchanged. They discuss the new gallows in the city square, and then enact William Faulkner's "Sanctuary" in charades. From the backyard where he is building little mounds of fresh dirt Clodsworth calls:

CLODSWORTH: Ma, I'm hungry again.

A shadow passes over Mrs. Pithecanthropus' face as she glances furtively toward Miss Murdstone, who is Indian wrestling Mr. Pithecanthropus. Mr. Pithecanthropus, who also heard his son's cry, studies Miss Murdstone's plump life bicep. He snarls hungrily. Outside there is thunder and lightning.

MRS. P.: Uhhh... Miss Murdstone, wouldn't you like to see the rest of the house? The upstairs dungeon perhaps?

MISS MURDSTONE: Might as well, dearie, this slob doesn't play in my league. (They exit.) A few minutes pass. Then, from offstage there comes a muffled scream, a dull thud and then silence. Mrs. Pithecanthropus reappears and once again consults the Grolier volume on cooking, this time under "T." She looks fondly over at Mr. Pithecanthropus who, while waiting for old Shep again to regain consciousness is idly thumbing through the 4-color illustrated Grolier volume entitled "The Victims of Jack the Ripper." She chuckles lovingly as she notices that her husband is putting on a little weight. Dreamily she flips the pages over to "H."

Outside, young Clodsworth whistles happily as he completes his last mound. The moon smiles down. From the mound there seems to come a weak gasp. Clodsworth taps one end resoundingly with his shovel. There is a spasmodic jerk and all is silent.

The world is at peace.

School Gets Grant-in-Aid

• A GRANT-IN-AID of $700 was recently received by the university from the National Association of Education Broadcasters financing a project to produce for their network radio programs giving Washington listeners the background of current events.

With the emphasis on the backgrounds of national and international events, a series of weekly half hour radio programs have been planned by the Journalism and Speech departments.

The program will be administered by Dr. Elbridge Colby for the Journalism department, and Dr. Leggett of the Speech Department.

Students Kenneth Elieger and James Johnson will be in charge of production of the tape recordings which will be sent each week to NAEB network headquarters, located in Urbana, Illinois, for duplication and distribution.

The NAEB network consists of 91 stations affiliated with university or public school systems in 30 states and is not an attempt to compete with commercial network news events round-ups.

There are at present no definite plans to broadcast the programs locally.

Vinnie Boosts Intramurals

by Ed Jaffee

• WHEN VINCENT J. "Vinnie" DeAngelis became head of the University intramural department last Spring, the appointment was just one more factor in a long career of service to the school.

Born in Brooklyn, the affable Vinnie went to George Washington from 1935 to 1939 and graduated as a member of Alpha Phi Omega, Omicron Delta Kappa, Who's Who and the Cherry Tree Hall of Fame. He also won the ODK extra-curricular activities award in 1938. This might give one the impression that he was one of the bigger "wheels" on campus. He was, for in addition to the above activities, Vinnie played a year of varsity football and three years on the Colonial baseball squad, captain of the team in 1936.

Active Graduate

Upon his graduation, Vinnie, who had been on the Student Council as student intramural director, became manager of the University's first student club, now the Student Union. He held this job until the Air Force called him up in 1942. Meanwhile, the versatile Vinnie had been head of the '42 baseball team (this coming only five years after he was a playing member).

Coming out of the service as a Captain in 1946, the softspoken "Mr. D." became the first manager of the newly built Lisner Auditorium, and in 1948 he moved over to Building "D" as assistant business manager of the University, keeping this position until he was appointed assistant professor of physical education in 1949.

Vinnie had hardly gotten started on his P. E. instructing when the war in Korea broke out and he was recalled to the Air Force. He was released last January as a Major on reserve and once again came home to roost at George Washington taking over from Joe Krupa as director of the intramural department.

A Hard Worker

Currently, Vinnie is "only" treasurer of the Lettermen's Club. He really projects himself into all his work, and, judging by this year's participation in intramural athletics, is doing a tremendous job.

Mr. DeAngelis' main aim at present is to encourage even greater participation in the intramural program. To put it in his own words, "We are trying even harder to reach the independent students in the University, as well as the fraternity men, and to bring them together through the medium of sports."

And you would have to say that Vinnie has really been working hard toward his goal of 100 percent participation. To date, over four-fifths of the organizations on campus have participated in at least one intramural sport.

Donor Gives Law Award

• APPLICANTS FOR THE Root-tildon Scholarships must be in by February, 15, 1954. These scholarships for outstanding law students were first offered in 1951, and provide a stipend of $2,200 per year. Two scholarships are provided for the most promising law students in each of the ten Federal Judicial Circuits.

The scholarships were made possible by the gift of an anonymous donor, and honor Elihu Root, and Samuel J. Tilden, graduate of the Law School. The sum provided for by the scholarships is intended to cover books, tuition, and living expenses.

University students will be included in the fourth Federal Judicial Circuit, even though Washington, D. C., is legally an independent Circuit.

TV Proves Gonest Yei

by Mary Lou Benson

Do you shriek with joy at the sight of other people's blood on television? Don't be ashamed to admit it. Actually, you are one of the few people who realizes that intellect is passe.

Television is educator now, the real educator. You never learn the truth about life in the right kind of books. But if it weren't for TREASURY MEN IN ACTION how else would you know that bumping people off for their insurance just isn't done any more? That's pre-war stuff. Untraceable arsenic is the thing these days.

Budding young Business Administration majors might do well to follow RACKET SQUAD very closely. The latest, most scientific "five percent" methods are carefully analyzed, together with the unprecedented success of the confidence game. A thorough knowledge of both of these are necessary to the bright young politician who hopes for a successful career in public life.

But that isn't all. Television is a new kind of literature: sordid, earthy; the kind of thing small children don't learn to crave until they're 14, at least. Television gives it to them when they're still young and can cultivate it with impunity. In literary significance and content it is America's match to Shakespeare, at last. The style isn't quite the same, true. But statements like this don't give justice to the situation: "If thou givest me five per cent of the take, thou wilt surely get the royal contract." No, it's the literary insight and impact that eclipses Shakespeare.

Shakespeare wrote of treasonous plans, secret, murderous plots, and pernicious tax-collectors, but it took three sub-plots, too much nobility to be credible and two hours to say it. SUSPENSE and DRAGNET can say more about those same things with a used machinegun and a scarred face in less than 30 minutes.

Women don't learn to cook anymore. They learn how to jack up the car and change the oil. Television taught them how on a tremendously successful program: "THE ELECTRICAL, MECHANICAL, AND AUTOMOTIVE ASPECTS OF MARRIAGE." Television is quickly dissipating the myth that women marry for security. They marry for half their husband's bank account to start their own business.

As an index of change television is unmatched even by the automatic knitting machine. Entertainment is no longer a flip, immature affair. Witness the somber, thoughtful expression of viewers as they watch the long straight line of Lucky Strike cigarettes marching across a slanted plank. A phenomenon of modern culture.

Nor do people with talent need to prostrate themselves before a committee of frustrated panel scouts in order to gain recognition. This is the new age of individualism.

There's no doubt about it. Television is as necessary to our survival today as a pair of loaded dice are necessary to the promulgation of gambling.

Steve Korchek MVP, Top Area College Gridder

• STEVE (THE ROCK) Korchek, probably the greatest football player in GW's history, is still having honors piled on top of his "mile-long" list of laurels.

Korchek last week was voted the outstanding college player in the Washington area by the Touchdown Club. He won this title over such stiff competitors as Bernie Faloney and Stan Jones of Maryland.

The Most Valuable Player award for the Southern Conference also was won by Korchek last week.

Previously he had been named first-string center on the All-Southern Conference eleven and had been selected as third-team center on the Associated Press All-America.

Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Nu Gain Victories In Intramural Openers

• THE INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL season kicked off last Sunday afternoon at the gym. In the only two games which were reported, Sigma Nu tripped Sigma Chi "B," 26-15 and Delta Tau Delta turned back the Law School cagers to the tune of 38-15.

A scrappy Sigma Nu five opened its season by toppling the SX "B" outfit in a run-away tussle. SN grabbed an early 6-0 lead and the game was never close after that. Mark Spies was the game's high scorer, leading SN with 10 points. Ed Hearst paced the losers' attack with four markers.

"Chuck" Clark sparked the Deltas to their easy triumph by banging the nets for 15 points. Hugh Shaeffer was high scorer for the Law School.

ALDEN

Coach Bill Reinhart doesn't want to commit himself on this year's basketball team, understandably at this early date, but Reinhart readily says that Devlin is a vastly improved player this year.

"He is better defensively, and also much stronger under the backboards," says Coach Reinhart.

IT APPEARED THAT CORKY might not play for GW early this season when his Newark Draft Board sent him letters to the effect that draft seemed imminent.

But Devlin has cleared himself with his draft board, and will be on the Colonial scene for another year after this one.

This should assure GW of two championship teams in a row, for with a backboard man like Joe Holup, a playmaker like Elliott Karver and a shot like Corky Devlin, the Colonials should take all the marbles this year.

And with Joe Holup and Devlin returning next year, and with the contemplated development of George Klein, another transfer student from Potomac State, the Buff should be about as strong next year.

CORKY IS A PRETTY INDEPENDENT SORT of person. He is the only basketball regular, with the exception of the wedded John Holup, who lives away from Welling Hall, the domicile of most GW athletes.

Devlin lives at a fraternity house on G Street (known as Sigma Chi). Corky does most of his own cooking. He and one of his fraternity brothers share a whole refrigerator, which they padlock to assure that they will be the ones to eat the food stored within.

Young Walter is also known around these parts as a pretty fair dancer. And his "Arthur Murray" steps seem to be quite a help to him on the basketball floor, for he is developing into one of the shiftiest players in the area.

Joe Holup was the number two man in scoring for GW with 14 points. Elliott Karver and John Holup followed with 12 points apiece.

Others scoring were George Klein (7), Frank Morrison (4), and Ed Catino (4).

The Colonials halted a four-game Spiders' winning streak.

Oquassa Group Teaches Beauty of Water Ballet

by Damon Cordom

• TO SWIM IS EASY enough, but to swim in synchronization is not. This is what Oquassa, the GW water ballet group, tries to do.

Oquassa was established at the University in 1947 for the purpose of teaching men and women the beauty of water ballet. The group derived its name from a species of trout that has as its habitat Lake Oquassa, Maine.

The twenty-four member troupe is responsible for every phase of its performance. Members are required to write the exhibition, make all costumes and props and to coach formations and routines. This year's troupe will portray many of the fairy tales that thrilled you when you were a tot. It might be interesting to see them narrated in a new media.

Though many persons believe this organization to be solely comprised of women, it is not. It is a mixed group. Anyone wishing to tryout for Oquassa may do so any Wednesday from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at the YWCA.

Following officers have been elected.

Beverly Borden, president; Ruth Berryman, vice-president; Lee Humphrey, secretary-treasurer; Diana Burk, corresponding secretary; Pat Delaney, prop chairman.

Pennsylvania-Infested

Freshman Grid Team Builds Future Stars

by Jerry Davis

• THE FRESHMAN football team, a "hot-bed" for developing varsity material, will send 30 graduates to Coach Bo Sherman next fall, with nearly half that number hailing from Pennsylvania—another famous football "hot-bed."

Fourteen of the members of this season's frosh eleven claim the Quaker State as their home. The squad, with the Pa. punch, is rated as one of the top freshman clubs at GW in many moons.

The frosh compiled a 2-3 record this season, but that doesn't begin to tell the true story. Actually Coach John Yednoch tutored a top-flight, well-balanced crew who are destined to play starring roles for the Colonials in forthcoming campaigns.

Victories for the freshman aggregation came at the expense of Potomac State, 19-7, and Bullis Prep, 13-6. Setbacks were absorbed in games with Maryland, 25-7; Richmond, 26-19, and William and Mary, 12-7.

Lose Seven

Seven seniors were lost by this year's Colonials. Some of the first-rate frosh should be able to fill the empty shoes very snugly.

Probably the best backfield prospect is co-captain Claude Austin, of Kingsport, Tennessee. Austin, a fullback, will undoubtedly see a great deal of action with the varsity forces next year.

Ken Simmons, also of Kingsport, held down a halfback slot on the team, and should be able to make the jump to the varsity without breaking stride.

Joe Rossani, of Bloomfield, N. J., was the team's other starting halfback and John Kinyo, of Akron, Ohio, was the quarterback for the team.

Earl Ebersole, a speed-demon who scored twice against Potomac State, and Vince Syracuse, both halfbacks and both from Pennsylvania, were first-line frosh reserves in the backfield.

Lightest At 197

Paul Thompson, lightest man on the starting line at 197 pounds, is the pet target for GW pass-throwers. Thompson, from Midland, Maryland, and Bill Amoss, a Roosevelt High graduate, are the team's first string ends. Bill Chesney, of Bloomfield, N. J., and Albert "Zip" Zippey, Uniontown, Pa., are the other ends.

Four giants were tackled with the frosh eleven. Starters Ed Skatcatch, of Pittsburgh, and Don Zubic, Manassas, Va., will be priceless material for Bo Sherman to inherit. Skatcatch, a 250-pounder, is a strong blocker. Zubic weighs in at 235.

Dave Liddich, Harrisburg, Pa., at 260, and 275-pound Wally Furr, of Leesburg, Va., are the other tackles.

Pennsylvania also provided the starting guards for the freshman squad. Bob Sutton, of Pottstown, and Bob Lloyd, of Harrisburg, filled the guard posts. Jim McDaniels, from Oklahoma, who was converted from an end, was the other guard.

The other co-captain, Joe Hince, Pittsburgh, who played in 1952 with the Fort Belvoir Engineers, should figure in Coach Sherman's 1954 plans. Hince eventually hopes to follow the footsteps of graduating great Steve Korchek.

All told, the Pa.-infested freshman team will send plenty of gifted material to next year's football club, and they'll be welcomed with open arms.

Girls' Rifle Squad Opens

• THE WOMEN'S varsity rifle team fired 483x500 against the University of Rhode Island in its first match of the season last Saturday at the rifle range in Corcoran Hall basement.

The opponent's result has not yet been received, as it was a postal match.

Anne Piggot was the high scorer with 99. The other five top scorers were Virginia Rabell, 97; Barbara Hinners, 96; Virginia Raven, 96, and Pat Federico, 95.

The surprise of the day was Rabell's second high score. It was only the second time she had fired, learning to shoot since joining the rifle club this fall. She had been the last shooter selected by Coach Harris to complete the team's roster of ten.

Other members of the team who fired were Beverly Teeter, Elizabeth Reed, Carol Ann Peters and Phyllis Greenberg. All team members are getting special coaching this week and the women who will fire in the next match will be chosen on the basis of practice scores.

Membership in the Rifle Club has not yet been closed. Anyone interested is invited to join. Instruction and equipment, including guns and ammunition and shooting coats are provided. Practice is held from noon until 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Colonials Favored in Next Four Games

Rudin's Ramblings

• THE BUFF BASKETBALL Team, despite a large scare administered by an aroused Richmond team, seems to be gunning for one of the best seasons in the University's history.

One of the local scribes remarked after the West Virginia tilt, that the Colonials are good, but lack reserves. Yet, it was the likes of such subs as George Klein and Frank Morrison who sparked the local five to victory last Friday. Thus, with only a few returns in, the 'G'-Streeters seem to be rushing for the Southern Conference crown. With two of their tougher foes, the Mounts of Morgantown and the Spiders of Richmond, out of the way, it would appear the Buff are on their way.

JIM RUDIN

WE CAN NOT view the Holiday Tournament slated for December 29 and 30 with a great deal of pleasure. Three other teams, besides the Colonials are entered in the tourney. They are VPI, Virginia, and Richmond. The scene of these games will be Washington Lee High School.

Our objection to these tilts is simple: morale. Many of the cagers were unable to go home during the Thanksgiving holiday due to practice. Now it appears that the team will have to remain at the University during some of the Christmas holidays. This sort of thing could do great harm to team spirit.

GEORGETOWN SEEMS to be having its share of good luck so far this season. We have a strong feeling that the Hoyas will soon run out of rabbits' feet when they stop playing such clubs as Mt. St. Mary's and Baltimore College. Maryland again seems to have a good team. The spark of that is, of course, Gene Shue. We only hope the Buff will save a few points for these two teams.

Several new honors have come to Steve Korcheck. The Touchdown Club of Washington has named Steve the outstanding college player in the area. He beat out such notables as Bernie Faloney and Stan Jones. Steve also won the Most Valuable Player Award in the Southern Conference.

We congratulate the Athletic Department for its voting at the recent Southern Conference convocation. The University voted, along with four other schools, to allow freshmen to play varsity sports. Since the two-thirds vote was lacking, this motion was defeated. We feel that the men in Building R did the right thing.

Buff Beat Richmond, West Va. Last Week

• GW'S HIGHLY TOUTED Colonials disposed of the two teams rated as their toughest opponents in the Southern Conference in the first week of play, and moved on top of the S. C. basketball standings.

The Colonials smothered West Virginia, 106 to 75, on Tuesday, and then returned to Uline Arena on Friday to stop Richmond, 81 to 67.

Corky Devlin, a junior from Newark, New Jersey, was the big gun for GW in both games. Devlin scored 33 points against the Mountaineers and 28 against Richmond, for scoring honors in both games.

The Colonials opened strongly against West Virginia and operated smoothly, as smoothly as they have ever done in recent years, as long as the first team was in there. The reserves couldn't hold a 40-point lead, but still had enough left to win by 30.

Karver Scores 22

Elliott Karver contributed 22 points to the GW attack against

ELLIOTT KARVER (left) and WALTER (CORKY) DEVLIN are two big reasons that George Washington has won its first two basketball games. Corky has scored 61 points, and Elliott has netted 34 in the two games. But Corky's improved floor play and improved defensive play and Karver's aggressiveness and court generalship have been as important to the Buff as the points scored.

Danz, Kober Grid Captains

• FULLBACK Dutch Danz and end Pat Kober have been named co-captains for the 1954 Colonial football season.

Danz is a 190-pound fullback from Lancaster, Pennsylvania, who has been the leading ground gainer for GW during the past two football seasons. He won a second team berth on the all-Southern Conference team this fall.

Kober, a graduate of Washington's Anacostia High School, has played two seasons at end for GW.

Bryant Leads Rifle Team to Runner-up Berth to Maryland

• THE GW MEN'S Rifle team finished second in a three-team match last Saturday at the University of Maryland.

Maryland, last year's national champion, won the match with a score of 1432. GW shot 1352, while Johns Hopkins was third in the match with 1341.

It was the first setback of the year for the Colonial shooters in three matches.

High scorer for the day was Linn Savage of Maryland who shot 290. GW's high point man was Bob Bryant with 283. Other scorers for the University were Jim McDaniel, 269; Art Savage, 267; Chuck Cody, 267, and Mark Spies, 266. Also shooting were Jack Lane, Bob Reinen and Bob Goldstein.

the Mountaineers. Other scoring leaders for the Colonials were Joe Holup with 15, and John Holup with 12.

Others scoring were: Buzz Cirillo (6), Ed Catino (6), Jay Manning (5), Phil DeTurk (3), Jack Vaile (2), and Joe Petcavich (1).

GW, executing its fast-break with great success, moved ahead of the Mountaineers, 22-8, after seven minutes in the opening period, and were never threatened for the lead.

Devlin sank six baskets in the first period and added nine points in the second for a first half total of 21 points.

(See WINS, Page 11, Col. 5)

Down Alden's Beat

High-Scoring Devlin Becomes GW Star

• WALTER (CORKY) DEVLIN WAS a pretty good player for George Washington University's basketball team last winter. He even surpassed the former all time GW scoring record for one season by scoring 334 points last year, although a guy by the name of Joe Holup set a new mark of 427.

Corky also established a new mark for shots taken, although records in this field aren't too complete. Devlin took 336 attempts for the basket, and hit on 139, for a very respectable 41.4%. (In fact, only Joe Holup and Elliott Karver achieved better averages, despite the general rumor that Corky took quite a few shots.)

Devlin may have been a good player last year, but this year he has laid the groundwork for a really great season. In two games (although two games are not reliable basis to determine greatness) Corky has averaged an amazing 61.9% accuracy on his field goal attempts. He has also averaged 90% accuracy on his free throw attempts, both figures which would have won him the individual high marks among major college players last year.

In scoring 33 points against West Virginia in GW's opener, Corky tied the single game mark of 33 points set by Joe Holup in the 113-87 rout of Duke here last year. Corky also set a new mark for most field goals in one game (15), bettering the former record of 13, held by himself and Joe Holup.

CORKY ESTABLISHED A NEW SCORING MARK for two consecutive games by adding 28 points in the Richmond game to his 33 against West Virginia. No player in GW annals has ever approached the start that Devlin is off to this season.

And Corky's brilliant offensive displays are not the only thing causing raves about the Newark, New Jersey junior. Devlin has developed into one of the best passers on the team. He probably is Joe Holup's best feeder.

Devlin is also a much improved defensive player in comparison to his performance last year. "I credit much of my improvement to play in the summer boys club league," says Corky.

Corky and Joe Holup played on the Miller's Hi-Life team in the Washington Boys Club summer basketball league at the Georgetown Branch in probably what was the the greatest assemblage of basketball players toiling on amateur teams that was ever gotten together. Playing in the same league were such former all-Americans as Dick Groat and Paul Arizin, both of whom played some professional basketball after their graduation from college. Despite the rugged competition, Corky averaged 22 points a game, and was the high scorer on his team that placed third in this type competition.

WALTER DEVLIN, a six-foot, four inch, 175 pound athlete, was not even close to being the outstanding player on the Central High School basketball team in Newark, New Jersey, a few years ago.

In his senior year, Corky averaged not better than 11 points a game. He showed a lot of potential, but was not a finished high school player.

After a year of working for a living, Walter matriculated to Potomac State Teachers College in West Virginia. He began to show on the basketball floor some of the potential that a lot of people had been talking about for several years, and ended up as the top scorer on his team. He also made the all West Virginia college five that year.

Corky transferred to GW two years ago, and became eligible to play under NCAA Southern Conference rules last year. Corky was not a starter when the season began. But after the first half-dozen games or so, Corky worked himself into a starting berth, and became one of the most feared shots on the team.

"WE'RE A MUCH STRONGER TEAM this year," observes Devlin, who seems to have matured as a basketball player. The George Washington team, like Corky, not too consistent in the past, but often brilliant, also shows signs of having matured.

"We have much more team spirit this year, and much less individual performing. I think we're going to do a lot better this year," remarks Corky.

Play VPI Here Wed. At Uline

by Bob Alden

• GEORGE WASHINGTON University's basketball team, off to its best start since pre-war days, plays two opponents this week, and should finish its pre-Christmas play as the undefeated leader of the streamlined Southern Conference.

The Colonials who soundly defeated West Virginia (106-75), and displayed a great comeback quality in burying Richmond (81-67), with a second half rally, play V.P.I. here and William and Mary at Williamsburg.

GW entertains the Gobblers of Virginia Tech Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. at Uline Arena, before an anticipated crowd of 2,000 people.

The Colonials travel to historic Williamsburg to meet William and Mary Friday night. And the Indians' really good teams seem to be history also, although any team in the Southern Conference is always capable of pulling an upset.

Karver at Forward

Starting for GW in tomorrow night's game with V.P.I. will be John Holup and Elliott Karver (forwards), Joe Holup (center), Walter Devlin and Ed Catino (guards).

Cavorting at forwards are the elder Holup and Karver, co-captains, who were regulars in the same positions two years ago as sophomores.

John, a six-foot, five-inch senior, who should set a new three-year career scoring record for GW players, seems to have regained some of the habits that caused the label of greatness to be bestowed upon him a couple of years ago.

John seems to be pulling down those rebounds that he wasn't getting after mid-season last year. He is also scoring important points for the Colonials when they need them most, especially emphasized in the Richmond game.

Karver, long the most aggressive player on the Colonials, and perhaps the most polished, is seeing more action at forward. The Bronx Bull, who played mostly at guard last season, is using this setup to take more advantage of his brilliant repertoire of drive-in shots. Karver has averaged 17.5 points a game so far, to be GW's number two scorer.

Devlin Averages 30.5

At center is sophomore Joe Holup, whose scoring has not been quite as much as expected, but whose rebound play has been pretty much up to par. Joe is among the nation's leaders in rebounds again this season.

Walter (Corky) Devlin, whose one-handed jump shot from about half-way out has become one of the best shots in the game today, is playing at one of the guard (See CAGE, Page 11, Col. 1)

Welling Notches Mural Wrestling

• WELLING HALL captured first place honors in the intramural wrestling tournament held last Wednesday night at the gymnasium.

Stan Wananac, Wally Furr and Hinchaw won their matches to place Wellings to the victory. Sugaman was the other member of the winning team. He earned a draw in his match with White (Independents).

Dick Drake and Stone won matches to give Law School, which recently began participating in intramural play, second place. Shaffer and Christofson were other members of the Law School team.

Sigma Nu finished third in the tourney, with Russell gaining a verdict. Other winners were Bernie Kovacs (SX), who won by default; Muggleston (TKE) and Caldwell (ESK).
